STUDENT CONDUCT AND ACADEMIC HONESTY

What is the Disruption of Instructional Activities?

Disruption of instructional activities includes any act that interferes with the learning process, including but not limited to: examinations, lectures, seminars, tutorials, group meetings, other related activities, and with students using the study materials. Acts of disruption include a range of sanctions from a warning and/or a failing grade on an assignment, examination or course to suspension from OC.

What is Cheating?

Cheating is the use of unauthorized aids during an examination. This includes the use of books, notes, diagrams or other aids excluding those authorized by the examiner. It includes communicating with others for the purpose of obtaining information, copying from the work of others and purposely exposing or conveying information to others.

Students must submit independently written work. Students may not write joint or collaborative assignments with other students unless the instructor approves it in advance as a group/team project. Students who share their work with other students are equally involved in cheating.

What is Plagiarism?

Plagiarism is the use of someone else's work or ideas without their permission and without giving them credit. This includes copying text, images, audio, video, or any other form of media, without permission for course credit towards a certificate, diploma, degree and/or professional designation. The defining characteristic is that the work is not yours.

Plagiarism can occur in many ways, such as copying text from a journal article, a book chapter, data from the Internet, another student, work submitted for credit in another course or from other sources.

Plagiarism can also occur unintentionally due to poor or inadequate practices. Unintentional plagiarism is a failure of scholarship; intentional plagiarism is an act of dishonesty.
